Newham's Speakers Corner

'give parents a voice so they can be the voice of change'

Support for students to gain the dominant and valued forms of capital, especially social and cultural (Bourdieu, 1986)

Shift from meritocracy to 'parentocracy' (Kevin Wai & Zeng, 2021)

parents have influence over their child's education; they can provide guidance & encouragement

GREEN STREET

using a space within the public local community to break down barriers of participation

BAME
59% of Newham don't speak English as their first language

'PEER-TO-PEER PUBLIC EDUCATIVE SPACE'

Where parents empower each other; where language barriers can be overcome by using each other to translate; where improved parental and community engagement fosters a conversation about opportunities in higher education; where everyone involved is encouraged to share worries, questions, hopes, success stories, thoughts, concerns, experiences, failures, resources & recommendations; where knowledge is shared beyond boundaries
