

The London School of Economics and Political Science

The constituent who cried 'wolf': Lycanthropy in the British Conservative Party, 1951-1969

Lisa Simpson

A thesis submitted to the Department of Witchcraft and Superstition of the London School of Economics and Political Science for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, London, October 2011

Declaration

I certify that the thesis I have presented for examination for the MPhil/PhD degree of the London School of Economics and Political Science is solely my own work other than where I have clearly indicated that it is the work of others (in which case the extent of any work carried out jointly by me and any other person is clearly identified in it).

The copyright of this thesis rests with the author. Quotation from it is permitted, provided that full acknowledgement is made. This thesis may not be reproduced without my prior written consent.

I warrant that this authorisation does not, to the best of my belief, infringe the rights of any third party.

I declare that my thesis consists of <INSERT NUMBER> words.

[See Regulations for Research Degrees, paragraphs 34.5 or 36.3 on the word count of your thesis]

Statement of co-authored work (if applicable)

I confirm that Chapter X was jointly co-authored with Professor Smith and I contributed y% of this work.

Statement of inclusion of previous work (if applicable)

I can confirm that chapter X was the result of previous study (for a X award) I undertook at X institution.

Statement of use of third party for editorial help (if applicable)

I can confirm that my thesis was copy edited for conventions of language, spelling and grammar by [insert name of all third parties used for this purpose. See Statement on Editorial Help for further information.]

Abstract

The aim of my thesis is to investigate the reason for the apparent increase in the number of werewolves in the ranks of the ... [in not more than 300 words].