... has incredible communication skills! His lectures are as interesting as a TED Talk and, between each class, we participate in a facebook group where we can post and exchange interesting news regarding the concepts discussed in the class.

Through his comments, I have learnt how to increase my ability to write essays... and how to incorporate the information from lectures and classes into my essays. For instance, in my first essay I received a 2:2 but with his comments and re-writing my essay, I was able to achieve a high 2:1.

His feedback often extends beyond the formatives themselves, he strives to guide us how to think and gives us tips that are applicable to law as a whole. He always tells us about interesting cases that may not be included in lectures like ... I credit my strong interest in judicial review-related matters to him.

“

I would say that sometimes her feedback even helped me understand points I had not understood in other modules so far and connect my knowledge in this field even better ... Her lecture inspired me to work with longitudinal data in my dissertation.

“

She makes sure every student participates in discussions irrespective of their shortcomings, and aids in building their confidence without disregarding anyone's views.

“

... he gives us really great simulations, experiments and games in order to scrutinize the theories of electoral problems that we are studying. He even brings props in the form of chocolate or Malawian kwacha. This module is one the best taught I have had ever done and as a result, I and my classmates have been recommending it to our friends.

“

He epitomises everything you would want in a teacher. His energy and enthusiasm has certainly kept everybody motivated. It makes such a difference to have a teacher you feel truly cares about you and your classmates' lives outside of the classroom.

“

His supervision style is unique and ought to be a role model for others... His enthusiasm for a wide variety of topics and his attention to detail is unparalleled. It is inspiring to see him both roll-up his sleeves and go through pages of data tables while a minute later challenge us to think about the big picture.

“

The way I think has been fundamentally changed for the better through her teaching. I have never been more challenged and inspired by an educator before.

“

She inspires me to continue to stamp my credentials in the heavily male-dominated strategic and security sector. There is not enough space here to chronicle how much she has facilitated my growth as a researcher and an individual.

“

She competently and reassuringly guides students through the challenges of using qualitative methods. Her deep and rich experience, and her a tailored approach has allowed her to help students to put new knowledge into practice.

“

She has taken the lead in redesigning a challenging course from within... [and] has constantly innovated to make it clear to students that historical debate is relevant to contemporary issues.
