Relocation Service

Relocation Service offers a free and confidential service to all LSE faculty.

“Our aim is to ensure that your transition to London life and being part of LSE is as comfortable as possible.”

The School has a generous relocation policy in place to help you cover your moving expenses to London. The Director of the School and Heads of Department also have discretion to provide additional assistance to help you cover the costs of moving to London.

A copy of the LSE relocation policy can be found at:

"I really enjoyed my one month stay at Butler's Wharf - booking it from the USA was a breeze and the flat was very roomy and well laid out" - Prof. Frank Page

Testimonials

I would like to express my deep gratitude to Samantha Da Costa and her team for accommodating me in Grosvenor House for two academic years. Getting accommodation was very fast, with virtually no paper-work involved. The location could not be better, within 6-7 minutes walking distance to the LSE campus. The staff at the reception, as well as the security team were very friendly and helpful. With all the assistance and services that Samantha and her team provided I could just focus on my teaching and research without worrying about London transportation or about cleaning or anything else related to accommodation! Many thanks again!

Dr Nataliya Kibita, LSE Teaching Fellow

I really enjoyed my one month stay in at Butler's Warf and booking it from the USA was a breeze. The housing people are fun and efficient. The flat was very roomy and well laid out, very quite. Grocery stores were nearby as well as restaurants and coffee shops - and cabs were plentiful. A five minute walk across the historic Tower Bridge to the infamous Tower of London - and central London and a beautiful river walk to the Globe Theatre - Butler's Warf is a fantastic location. Samantha's patience finding me appropriate accommodation is flawless! Thank you again!

Professor Frank Page, LSE Visiting Fellow, Systemic Risk Centre

It's been a lifesaver having faculty accommodation at LSE to help place our academic visitors. The essence of Samantha and the team is communication and accessibility, and knowing what their customer wants. Their knowledge of London life is second to none. Our visitors appreciate the personal touch and the willingness to help always shown - as do we.

Hazel Johnstone MBE, Departmental Manager, Gender Institute

I have been at LSE for a research period for the elaboration of my thesis. When I was planning my visiting at LSE, I was not sure yet about how long my staying would have been. I got in touch with Ms Samantha Da Costa, who understood my uncertainties and found me the most suitable accommodation, offering an extremely kind help for any doubt of mine. Indeed, I initially booked for a limited period of time and I was informed about the possibility I had to extend my staying just a few weeks after my arrival at LSE. Again, LSE staff hasn't hesitated to help me meet my needs by managing to extend my previous booking even without plenty of time, so that I hadn't had to move to another place for the residual time. I am grateful to Ms Da Costa and to LSE staff for having helped me to live this marvellous experience.

Ilaria Villani, Sapienza University of Rome, LSE Researcher

As an associate staff member of LSE, I commute frequently between Munich and London. After trying out different housing options, I soon settled for LSE faculty accommodation. It offers affordable rooms and apartments close to the School and at the centre of London. The short walking distances allow you to make the most effective use of your time in terms of research and experiencing this great city. Overall, LSE Faculty Accommodation certainly offers best value for money as a short to medium-term residential solution for faculty members.

Professor Michael Sander, Department of International Relations

My partner and I stayed for several months at a flat in Passfield Hall when we first moved to London from Los Angeles. This is a great place to stay in London at a reasonable cost if you are looking for temporary accommodation. Samantha's knowledge, professionalism and efficient manner are hard to come by!
